Art

“Wings of Optimism” Original Framed Oil Painting by Artist Marcia Cooper

Marcia Cooper is a Newton artist who celebrates the majestic beauty of wildlife in some of her paintings with a vision that it may thrive in the natural landscape. The scene in this painting depicts a bird in flight, much like it appeared in one of her photographs that was taken while visiting a botanical garden. It is intended to lift our spirits with a feeling of hope. In addition to participating in the Annual Newton Open Studios, Marcia is a member of the Newton Art Association and President of Green Newton.

Ceramic Leaf Platters by Artist LJ Cohen, Dragon Belly Ceramics

Created by hand using canna (pictured) and hosta leaves from Lisa's garden at Starfield Farm in Central Massachusetts, these platters are formed from speckled stoneware and glazed white to grace any table. They are slightly curved and can be used either as decorative pieces or functional serving plates. The glaze is food-safe and the pieces can be put in a microwave, dishwasher, or oven (from a cold start to avoid heat shock).

“The Corner Farm” White Line Woodcut Professionally Matted and Framed by Artist Amy McGregor-Radin

This print design was inspired by NCF, which Amy McGregor-Radin said she drove by a million times per week when she lived just down the street. Amy is a local artist who has been creating white line woodcuts, also known as Provincetown prints, since 2002. This print is made by incising wood with a design, hand-painting each shape on the board, and transferring the color to paper. Each print is unique.

Hand-Turned Wood Bud Vase by Dean Bottino

One-of-a-kind vase made of layered sipo, red grandis, bloodwood, mahogany, purpleheart, and sapele exotic hardwoods with a glass insert. Dean is a scientist who lives in Newtonville with his family and enjoys woodworking as a hobby.
